ABOUT CONFERENCE

The African steel industry has experienced remarkable growth over the past two decades. With rapid expansion expected in the future, the industry is poised to maintain this growth trajectory and achieve even greater milestones. However, this evolving market presents significant challenges in the downstream processing of steel, including strip galvanizing, coil coating, and further finishing.

Customer expectations have risen, and market awareness is at an all-time high. Coil coating is primarily dominated by major steel producers, with several small- and medium-scale companies, along with steel processors, service centers, and profilers, playing crucial roles.

There is an increasing need for information exchange and networking among all these stakeholders, as well as equipment and technology suppliers involved in the process. In light of this, the Steel Group is organizing a grand gathering of suppliers, users, and consultants to explore innovative advancements and market strategies for the coil coating industry in Nairobi Kenya.
